GUIDELINES FOR USING LICENSED TRADEMARKS

To protect the value of the licensed trademarks, there are rules that must be followed when using the trademark in all communications.

- Always use the trademark as an adjective followed by generic words. It is not necessary to use a generic work or symbol (® or ™) when using the trademark as a company name.
For Example: RightAnswer.com's database
(trademark) (generic)
- The first use of the trademark in a title or copy must be followed by a "™" if the trademark application is not yet registered or "®" if the trademark is registered.
- On labels and other promotional materials, always use the following footnote trademarks (inserting the appropriate trademarks and their owners in the following statement):
For registered – example:
RightAnswer® is a registered trademark of RightAnswer.com, Inc. All rights reserved.

For unregistered (the ones in the list with a ™ or no symbol) —example:
WebInsight is a trademark of Ariel Research Company. All rights reserved.
- Always use the trademark exactly as it is registered. Do not change the spelling or design.
- Never combine a trademark with another trademark.
- Always specify your relationship to RightAnswer.com on labels and other promotional material.
i.e., "distributed by (insert name of distributor) for RightAnswer.com, Inc."
